Water/Ways Connects Communities Through Water and the Humanities
Exhibit Opens in Red Wing on October 1, 2016

September 22, 2016—ST. PAUL, Minn.—The Minnesota Humanities Center is pleased to announce the new Smithsonian Institution traveling exhibition—Water/Ways—will open at the Goodhue County Historical Society in Red Wing on Saturday, October 1. The Water/Ways Red Wing Opening Ceremony will be held at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, October 2, 2016, at the Goodhue County Historical Society in Red Wing. Water/Ways is a traveling exhibit that focuses on the relationships between people and water—how water connects story, history, faith, ethics, the arts, and science, all through community.

Water/Ways reveals the central nature of water in our lives by exploring how Americans use water, how water unites communities, how water affects every element of life, and how Americans care for our water and protect this valuable resource for the future. As Governor Mark Dayton mentioned in his 2016 Water Summit speech, “we have critical water quality problems in Minnesota . . . we cannot ignore them. We have to face up to them and work together, to solve them.” Water/Ways addresses water resource issues while seeking active solutions to real water problems in the host communities and our state.

Minnesota is one of only five states chosen by the Smithsonian to launch this new traveling exhibit. Developed as part of the Smithsonian’s Museum on Main Street (MoMS) program, Water/Ways is a unique collaboration between the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service, state humanities councils across the nation, and local host institutions.

“Water/Ways invites us to consider how we will take care of water—this most basic resource. It is a conversation about water,” said David O’Fallon, President of the Humanities Center. “Water/Ways offers exhibits, events, scientific information, and, most of all, opportunities to meet within our communities. I applaud the Goodhue County Historical Society for hosting Water/Ways and bringing together an array of Red Wing partners. Red Wing can be a leader in forming a new water ethic.”

The Water/Ways exhibit is specially designed for viewing in smaller, rural communities and will visit six Minnesota communities in 2016 and 2017. Through the Water/Ways traveling exhibit each host community will tell its local water stories and envision the future of water. The Minnesota host sites for Water/Ways are:

- New London/Spicer (Kandiyohi County), Prairie Woods Environmental Learning Center. June 25 – Aug. 7, 2016
- St. Peter (Nicollet County), Nicollet County Historical Society. Aug. 13 – Sept. 25, 2016

- Red Wing (Goodhue County), Goodhue County Historical Society. Oct. 1 – Nov. 13, 2016

As a part of Water/Ways, a companion exhibit, We Are Water MN, has been developed in conjunction with the Humanities Center’s Water/Ways partners, which include the National Endowment for the Humanities, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, the Minnesota Historical Society, the Minnesota Department of Health, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, and the Minnesota Section of the American Water Works Association, to tell the Minnesota story. This is an interactive story collecting exhibit that focuses on individuals’ relationships with and responsibilities to water. We Are Water MN raises awareness about the quantity and quality of Minnesota’s water, connecting exhibit-goers to active water solutions.

“We launched the tour in June and over the last three months we’ve had a great response from visitors, especially regarding the hands-on and local content,” said Britt Gangeness, Minnesota Pollution Control Agency Outreach Specialist. “We Are Water MN is designed to facilitate conversation and interaction among visitors. Stop by with your friends before a night out or with your family on the weekend.”

The Minnesota Water/Ways exhibit tour began on June 25, 2016 in New London/Spicer and ends on April 9, 2017, in Detroit Lakes.
